Poor People Haunt Officials At Home

WASHINGTON (AP) — Despite problems in their own mud-filled backyard, the Poor People's demonstrators are broadening their target area to include the homes as well as the offices of government figures.

About 100 of the poor clapped, sang and shouted their disapproval last night outside the apartment building of Rep. William D. Mills, D-Ark., a chief architect of the welfare program.

They laughed and clapped in derision after singing "Happy Birthday" for the powerful chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee.

But Mills, who turned 59 Friday, had left earlier in the evening. An aide said he had a prior commitment.

Police barred the door of the building and the demonstrators made no attempt to enter.

Afterward, they left the fashionable area on Connecticut Avenue and returned to their muddy shantytown near the Lincoln Memorial. So did nearly all the other 2,000 residents, in spite of earlier indications most of them would be evacuated for reasons of health and comfort.

A campaign spokesman said only about 50 women, children and the elderly were staying at area churches temporarily. Frequent rains that had soaked the camp stopped Friday morning and the weatherman was predicting little or no rain for the weekend.

To brighten spirits "soul music" was played on the camp's loudspeaker system at night. Campers huddled near glowing campfires.

The leader of the demonstration outside Mills' apartment building, Dr. George Wiley, denounced him as a man who "would take food out of the mouths of hungry people."

Wiley, director of the National Welfare Rights Organization, was alluding to Mills' successful drive last year for congressional restrictions on the welfare program and to his demand for a $6 billion cut in federal spending for next fiscal year.

Wiley promised the poor people would come back again and again to plague Mills until he changed his ways.

And he pledged the same harassment for Secretary of Agriculture Orville L. Freeman, who administers food distribution programs for the needy.

At a prayer vigil and rally outside the white-columned Department of Agriculture headquarters, the Rev. Jesse Jackson said the campaigners would follow Freeman to his office, his home, his vacation spot and even to church.

Hundreds of civilians, a few of them wounded, streamed into downtown Saigon from their homes in the area of the fresh fighting northeast of Saigon. Several heavy clashes have erupted in the area since the Viet Cong launched their lunar new year offensive Jan. 31. The enemy launched a second, smaller scale attack May 5.

The new fighting coincided with reports from police sources that elements of two Viet Cong regiments had infiltrated into Saigon's northern suburbs with heavy mortars, rockets and antiaircraft weapons. Authorities imposed a 24-hour curfew on northern Saigon.

Rocket-firing U.S. Army helicopter gunships were called in after one South Vietnamese marine battalion reported 15 men wounded in the first 10 minutes of fighting southwest of the bridge.

Earlier today, the Viet Cong attacked a U.S. 9th Infantry Division patrol at the Y bridge on Saigon's southern edge, scene of major fighting after the enemy's May 5 drive.

A memorial tribute to Msgr. Charles O'Neil D'Amour, Marquette Diocesan School Superintendent, was presented by Rep. Charles H. Varnum, 107th District, at a Holy Name High School student assembly on Friday.

Msgr. D'Amour, 49, was stricken April 18 in San Francisco where he was taking part in a convention of the National Catholic Education Association.

A native of Rapid River, Msgr. D'Amour had been Diocesan School Superintendent for 15 years, and before that for three years executive secretary of the Diocesan board, and was nearing his 25th anniversary as a priest when he died.

Rep. Varnum at the assembly of Holy Name High School students presented the framed resolution as a memorial to the school where Monsignor D'Amour had served as superintendent during its opening year, 1954 to 1955. The memorial was accepted by Father Lawrence Gauthier, the present superintendent.

The resolution adopted by the House of Representatives on May 9 and sponsored by Representatives Varnum, Dominic J. Jacobetti, Jack L. Gingras, and Russell Hellman, listed Msgr. D'Amour's achievements and areas of service to education and concluded:

"Resolved by the House of Representatives, that by these Negotiating teams of Harnischfeger Corp. and Local 632 of the United Auto Worker broke off their discussions on a new contract for the local plants of Harnischfeger, which have been struck since April 20, at 3 p. m. Friday at the Pioneer Motor Inn.

There was no agreement by the two sides on a new contract and no further negotiations were scheduled.

The two sides were brought together by Federal Mediator Michael Noonan and State Mediator Carl York on Friday, May 17, and their deliberations were renewed on Wednesday, Thursday and Friday of this week.

The prospect appeared to be that another week or two would elapse before more efforts were made to negotiate a contract.

When negotiations failed to reach agreement on a contract to replace the three-year pact which expired on April 15 it was announced that the key issue was the relationship of base pay and incentive pay.

Bolm's Coaching Brings Athletics, God To Kids

William Bolm, former Escanaba all-sport star, is in the coaching business these days, but he's doing it for God and Chinese kids instead of athletic recognition in the United States.

Bolm, 29, son of Mrs. William Bolm, 924 N. 18th St., directs the Queenstown Lutheran Church community and play center in Singapore as a participant in the Board of World Missions three-year program for college graduates.

The Queenstown Lutheran Church, completed in 1965, is located in the midst of the Queenstown area of Singapore where government housing rises 10 stories high with 100 families in each building.

The Lutheran play center is a solution to lack of activity inherent in a situation where

Two students from this area are among 568 Wisconsin State University - Oshkosh students tentatively listed for graduation June 1.

The spring class, the largest ever graduated from WSU-O, exceeds that of 1967 by 104.

Area students who will receive degrees are Susan Rae Phillips, Bachelor of Science, Gladstone and Carol Lynn Kaiser of Escanaba, Elementary Education, Bachelor of Science.

Plans Approved For Hannaville

WASHINGTON—The U.S. Housing and Urban Development Administration has approved the workable program for community improvement of the Hannaville Indian Community, according to Sen. Philip A. Hart.

The announcement of the approval came Friday, about five months after the program was adopted and submitted to HUD's Chicago office of the Hannaville Tribal Council and Housing Authority.

Billy Bolin, Gladstone, Bureau of Indian Affairs field representative, said the program is part of an overall plan for development of community housing.

He said that at the same time as the workable program for community development was approved, codes and ordinances required by the federal government were approved.

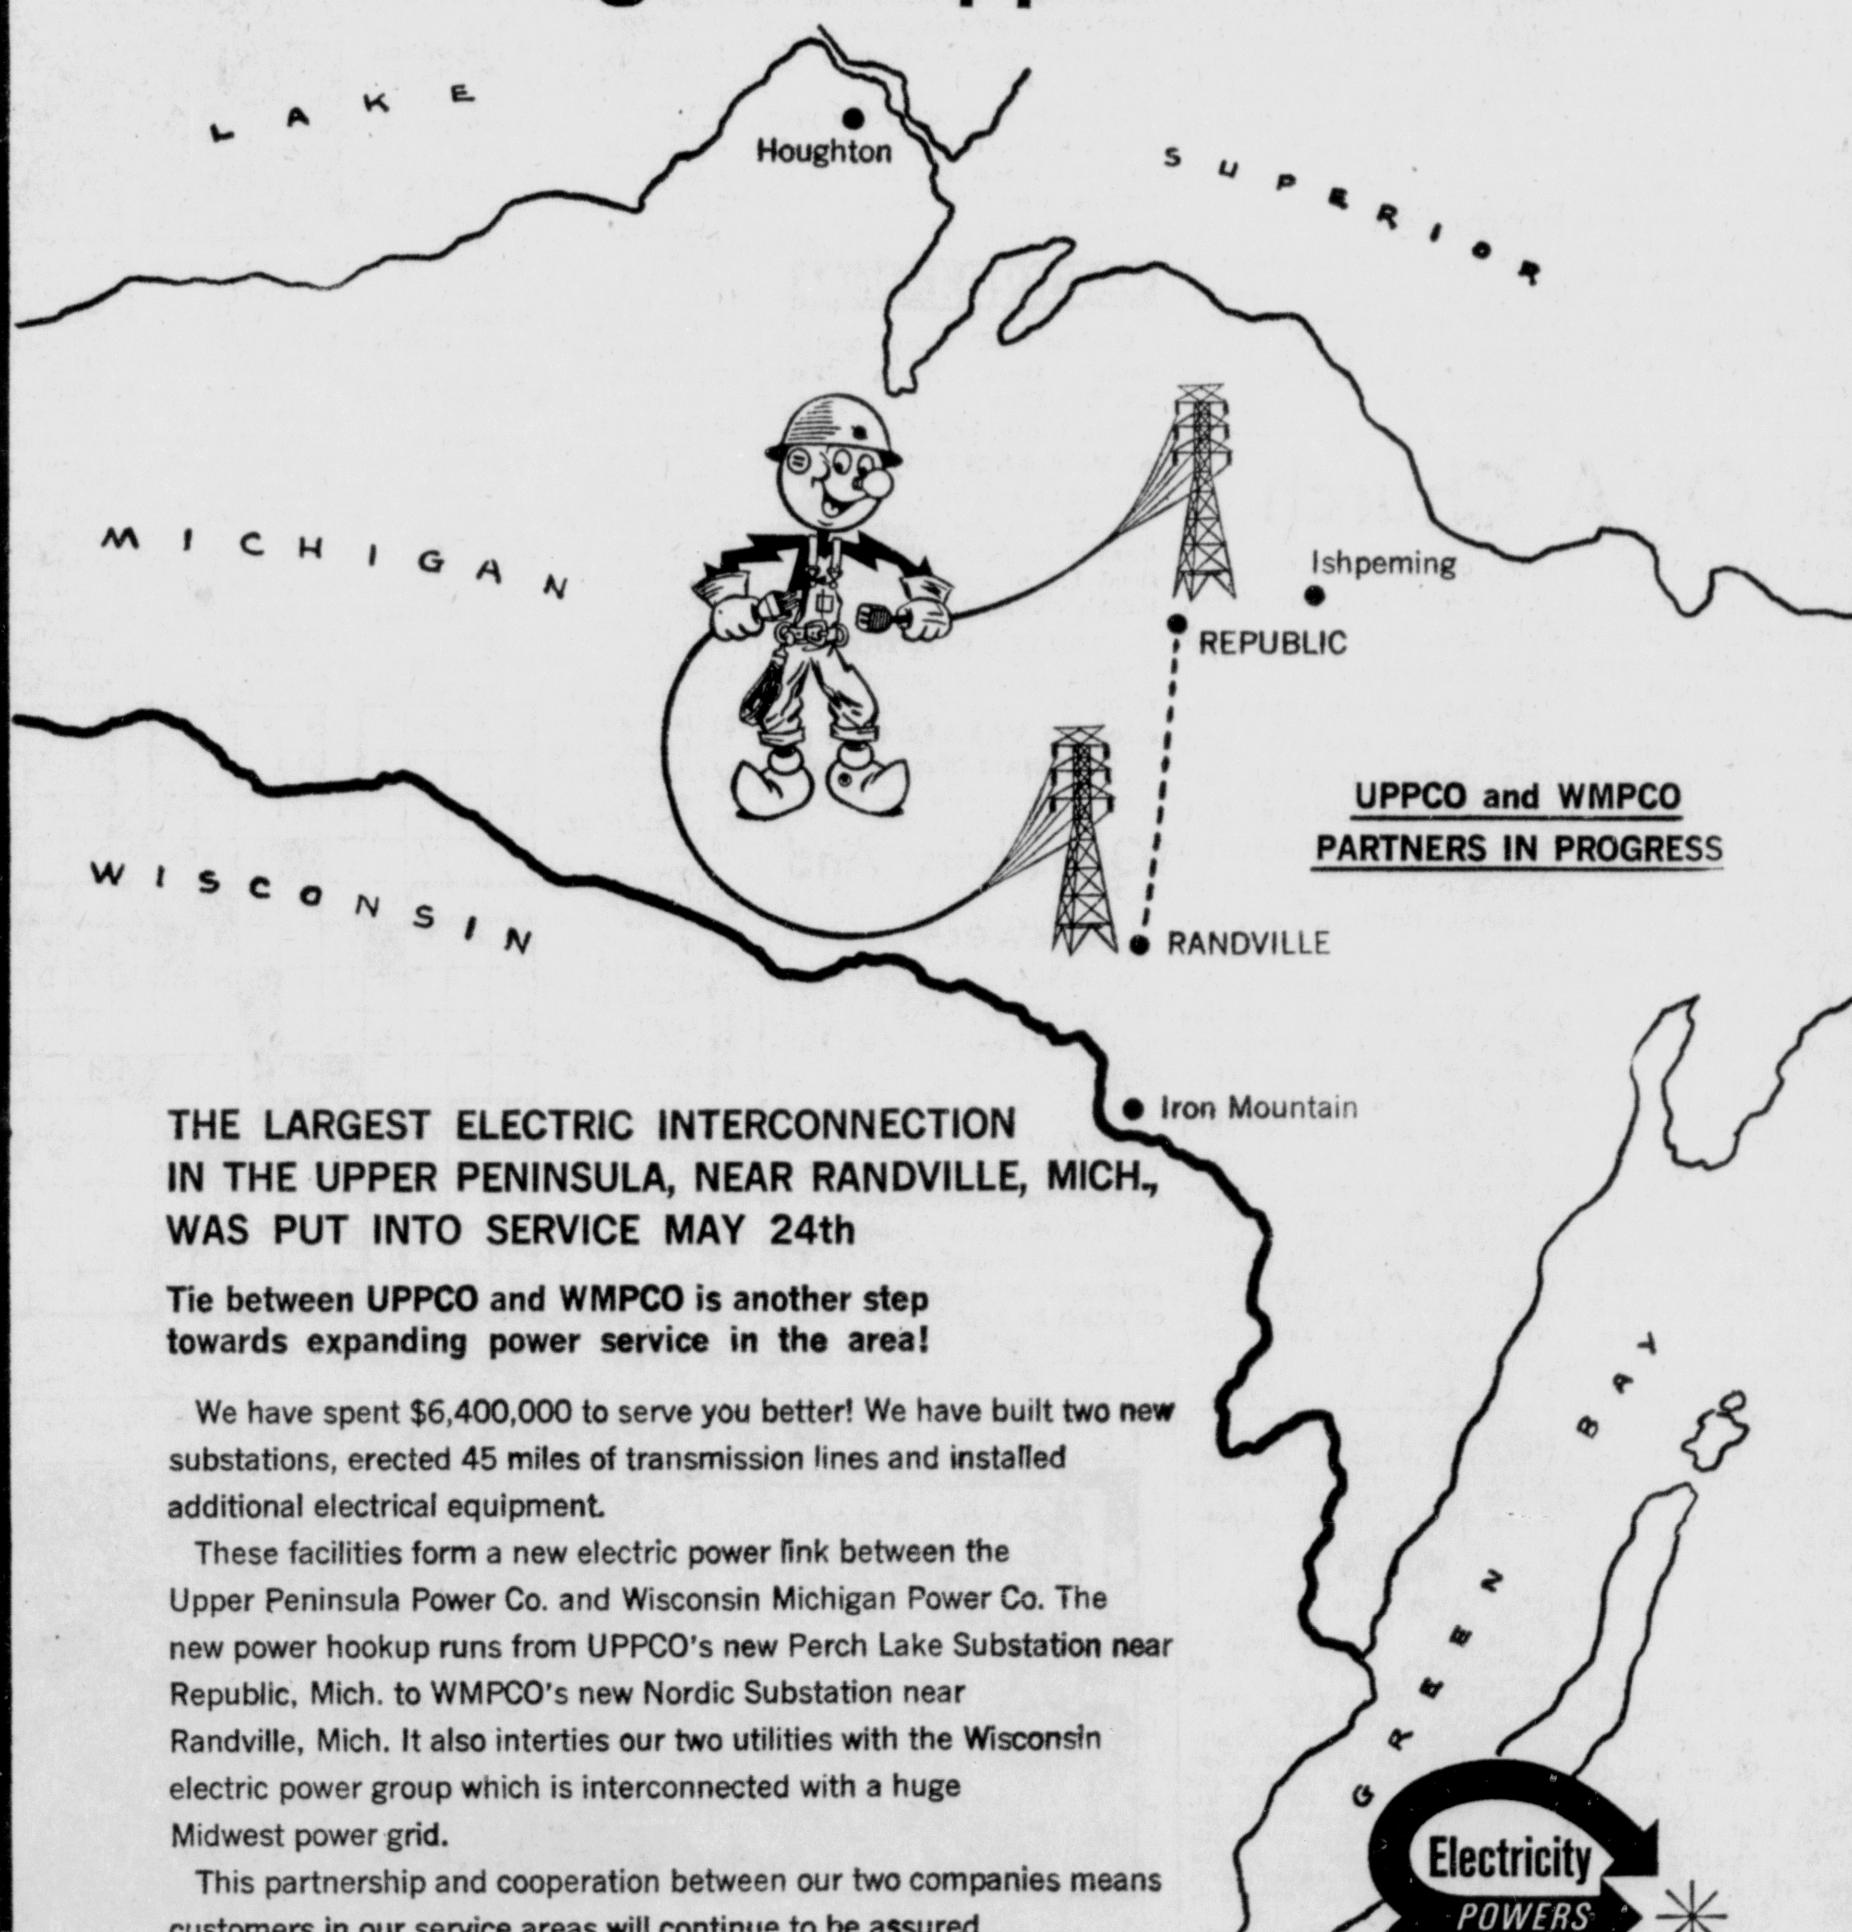

The next step, Bolin said, would be for the Housing and Urban Development administration to specify the number of housing units for which Hannaville will qualify. He said the community hopes to be able to build single-family units in a central location.

Bolin said that construction on the project could start "within the year" if planning can be completed according to government specifications and funds are available.

The workable program approved outlined projected community improvements, he said.

MORE POWER in Michigan's Upper Peninsula

THE LARGEST ELECTRIC INTERCONNECTION IN THE UPPER PENINSULA, NEAR RANDVILLE, MICH., WAS PUT INTO SERVICE MAY 24th

Tie between UPPCO and WMPCO is another step towards expanding power service in the area!

We have spent $6,400,000 to serve you better! We have built two new substations, erected 45 miles of transmission lines and installed additional electrical equipment.

These facilities form a new electric power link between the Upper Peninsula Power Co. and Wisconsin Michigan Power Co. The new power hookup runs from UPPCO's new Perch Lake Substation near Republic, Mich. to WMPCO's new Nordic Substation near Randville, Mich. It also interties our two utilities with the Wisconsin electric power group which is interconnected with a huge Midwest power grid.

This partnership and cooperation between our two companies means customers in our service areas will continue to be assured of a dependable supply of electric power for future growth and emergencies.

The economy of power partnerships such as this helps our companies continue to serve all of our customers at the lowest possible electric rates.

Peace Effort Deadly

The United States effort to make peace in South Vietnam is a very deadly business.

With peace talks underway in Paris and seemingly getting nowhere for the time — as was expected — the war has been intensified and whole districts of the capital, Saigon, have been destroyed. The week's bloodiest fighting of the war counted 562 American dead. More than 100,000 new refugees roam Saigon.

This is a repetition of our experience in South Korea, where we lost more men after peace talks started than in the whole period preceding.

What are the communists up to?

Are they waging peace as a more effective method of conducting the war? We have reduced our bombing of North Vietnam in order not to jeopardize our peace effort and it is reported to have been taken advantage of by North Vietnam with an unprecedented infiltration of troops into South Vietnam.

We have obviously weakened our military position and strength in Vietnam by our pullback to encourage peace efforts. The communists have used the situation to hit us harder and to build up their forces in South Vietnam. Is it an effort to improve their bargaining position in Paris?

There are several theories about communist intentions.

One theory holds that Ho Chi Minh accepted our invitation to talk peace because he's fearful that if we escalate the war further, he would have to have more aid from Red China and that this would reduce or destroy North Vietnam's independence.

He knows that he cannot fight the United States if it pulls out all the stops on the military organ. That would turn the war into a contest more openly and actually fought between the United States and China and Russia and Hanoi would expect to suffer in such a situation, with China increasing its control over Asia.

The darkest view of communist intentions is that Ho has his men in Paris only to improve the commies' military position in Vietnam. This reasoning holds that as long as the talks endure President Johnson won't start up the bombing again nor escalate the ground war.

The most hopeful theory and the one about which there's most uncertainty is that the communists have been badly hurt in South Vietnam and need peace. Some Russians in Washington have reported that their people who have been in the war areas say that the country has been destroyed.

This could be true without being effectively helpful to peace, because communism has an element of ruthless madness in it and the countries which are supplying the needs of war to North Vietnam are playing for high stakes — the military defeat of the United States in South Asia. That, they must reason, would soften up the rest of the world for communist conquest.

Deadlier Than War

For less than half the cost of one year's fighting in Vietnam, Americans managed to kill nearly three times as many of themselves on the highways last year than have died in three years of the war.

According to the Insurance Information Institute, the bill in 1967 for nearly 17 million engagements — traffic accidents — was more than $12.4 billion, $100 million more than 1966 and an all-time high.

Body count of the dead was 53,000 about the same as the previous year. Casualties numbered an estimated 4,356,243, up 3.8 per cent over 1966.

Even if safer highways, safer cars and a more safety-minded public eventually help reduce or hold the line on the human toll involved in 100 million Americans driving 96 million cars one trillion miles a year, the economic cost can go nowhere but up simply because of the general rise in the price of everything else, including medical services, automobile repairs and higher wages cost.

Since the economic cost is largely paid for by insurance companies — that is, by people paying premiums to those companies — this absolutely essential fee for the privilege of driving also promises to go nowhere but up.

Like the Vietnam war, the escalating economic attrition on the highways has aroused widespread unrest over the whole matter of automobile liability insurance, enough to prompt President Johnson to ask Congress to authorize a national study of the "over-burdened and unsatisfactory" system.

What is unsatisfactory is not just the cost of premiums but the practice of some companies of arbitrarily canceling policies in an attempt to weed out the poorest risks and the long, long delay and uncertainty of receiving justice in the courts.

A plan by two law school professors purports to eliminate the causes of most of this dissatisfaction. Under the Keeton-O'Connell "Basic Protection Plan," the question of liability would be dispensed with in most cases. As with other insurance, persons suffering loss would be paid (up to $10,000) regardless of who was at fault in an accident, less what benefits they received from other sources.

The American Trial Lawyers Association has vigorously attacked the plan, charging among other things that it would reward the careless driver and penalize the innocent one. Conceivably, an irresponsible person with no other insurance but basic protection could cause an accident and receive payment for his injuries. The other party could receive nothing because he had hospitalization insurance, which he may have bargained for from his employer in lieu of wage increases.

The insurance industry is no less concerned about the problem than the public or the law profession.

Ten insurance companies in Illinois have launched a six-month experiment in a modified form of the Keeton-O'Connell plan. Persons injured in accidents will be offered up to $12,500 a person, to be paid without proof that the other driver was at fault. Those who reject the offer can still go to court, and even in such cases will receive $5,000 in immediate benefits to be credited against an eventual settlement.

One hundred million drivers, plus the U. S. Congress, will watch with intense interest the result of this and other voluntary attempts to update a system that has changed little since the first automobile frightened the first horse.

"There's a Fellow Out Here Who Says He Needs Money!"

Constant Pressure Weakens Guerrillas

By RAY CROMLEY

SAKOL NAKCRN, Northeast Thailand (NEA) — The Thai here in the Northeast are using a system of fighting Communist guerrillas that might well be adopted profitably in important areas of South Vietnam.

These techniques depend heavily on police work in depth and sustained intelligence operations. They depend less on bombing. With less bombing, fewer Communist sympathizers are created. By gradually isolating the Communists into no-man's-land areas, fewer civilians are killed and destruction of homes is reduced.

We are now at Target Objective 6. Across the plain, somewhat more than a rifle shot away, are the foothills of the Communists seem to be getting hungrier. Judged by their operations, their morale and their equipment seem to be deteriorating.

No one knows for certain how many guerrillas are in this small cluster of hills—100...300...600. Periodically, the search and destroy teams move in. They rarely find any guerrillas. The Communists fade away as the troops advance. The take is usually a few empty caves, sometimes a little food, but not much else.

The Thai troops do know the guerrillas are there. There are raids on the villages. The military intelligence men have detailed maps showing the trails used by Red units and Red messengers when they move in and out of the villages for supplies and for liaison with their village contacts.

This reporter looks at the hills, but he can see nothing from this distance. We fly low off the right flank of the hills by helicopter. But, again, there is nothing to be seen.

The major objective of Target Objective 6 is not the semi-final search-and-destroy missions. It is to isolate and starve out the Communists—separate them from the neighboring communities on which they depend for food, medicine and intelligence and to keep them on the run so they will have no time to rest.

With this in mind, 10-man teams are permanently stationed in the two dozen villages surrounding Target Objective 6. On the average, each of these teams is composed of eight civilian defense men (normally reservists) and two police.

Each team patrols its own village, sets out guards, talks to the people, gains their confidence, gathers information on which households have relatives or friends among the guerrillas. The prime objective is to know the habits of the guerrillas and to anticipate their plans so they cannot sneak into the villages for food, rest, medical care or other aid.

Concurrently, military patrols periodically move around and into the foothills themselves to search out guerrilla activity and keep them off balance.

This system is not working perfectly. The Communists continuously infiltrate new men into these foothills from Laos nearby. Despite the patrols and security squads, the Communist guerrillas regularly sneak into the villages at night from their foothill bases.

When they want to move into a village in numbers, the guerrillas organize a diversion at one end of the village. When Thai security men are occupied with the diversion, another Communist unit moves into the village from another direction.

Though the general commanding this area is first-rate, and though he has highly aggressive first-line troops, the very nature of this type of operation is slow-paced. The local patrols—feeling none of the urgency of a real fight—therefore sometimes simply go through the motions.

Nevertheless, and despite these weaknesses, the system seems to be working in this particular target area. The guerrillas seem to be getting hungrier. Judged by their operations, their morale and their equipment seem to be deteriorating.

The challenge the Thai commanding general in this area faces is to iron out these bugs in his excellent operation before the Communists are able to build up their strength inordinately by bringing in newly trained men from Laos and North Vietnam.

South's hand is very much like yesterday's. South has exactly the same cards and North has the same except for the king of hearts instead of a small one.

The combination of an opening no-trump plus partner's 11 high card points is not likely to produce a slam and most pairs using ordinary methods would probably wind up in three no-trump.

The artificial bidding sequence shown in the box illustrates the scientific way to reach a slam.

North's two-spade bid shows a minor two suitor of indefinite strength. South's three club bid merely announces that his clubs are at least as good as his diamonds. North's three heart call shows help in hearts, if his partner wants to try three no-trump. It also infers a singleton spade and is a force to game.

South's bid of three spades happens to be a slam try. North can't be sure that it isn't saying South has spades stopped two or more times so North merely goes to three no-trump.

This puts it up to South once more and he bids four clubs. This shows that South's three spade call was a cue bid to show the ace and that South is definitely interested in a club slam.

North might jump to six clubs but he has been bitten by the science bug and bids four diamonds to show that ace. South replies with four hearts to show the ace of hearts and by this time North has had enough. He bids six clubs.

There is nothing to play at six clubs. All South has to do is to knock out the ace of trumps, draw the rest of the trumps and spread his hand.

Mark Of A Church

By REV. DAVID POLING

According to the Lightning Protective Institute in Chicago, some 983 buildings were hit by destructive lightning bolts last year. These structures were schools, hospitals, churches and government buildings.

The unfortunate high scorer in this list of targets is the church edifice. More than 400 churches were struck by lightning bolts in 1967, causing nearly $17 million worth of damage.

I don't want to suggest any theological conclusions from this statistic except to note that a steeple without lightning rods is dangerously similar to faith without works.

There is one congregation in Burlington, Vt., that seems fearless with regard to electric storms and lightning bolts and all the niceties of institutional religion as well. For Christ Presbyterian Church believes that its work and witness is found in the world around it and not in the physical presence of a New England steeple or a soaring bell tower.

With this in mind, 10-man teams are permanently stationed in the two dozen villages surrounding Target Objective 6. On the average, each of these teams is composed of eight civilian defense men (normally reservists) and two police.

'Project Summer Hope' To Begin Here On Sunday

A national campaign to wipe out racism and prejudice among church members will officially start Sunday, May 26, in all congregations of the American Lutheran Church.

The program, known as "Project Summer Hope," includes an educational program designed to reach into each of the ALC's 5000 congregations. Training sessions for pastors and other leaders have been held in each of the denominations' 18 districts.

Local pastors have been encouraged to organize congregational meetings, study groups and discussions with members of minority groups to deal with the issues growing out of crisis conditions in America's cities.

The guest speaker at the coffee-forum to be held after each worship service at Immanuel Lutheran will be Philip Jones of Kalamazoo.

A basic text to be used in the program at Immanuel is the report of the National Advisory Commission on Civil Disorders, headed by Governor Otto Kerner of Illinois.

A summary of the report will be published in the national magazine of the ALC, the Lutheran Standard.

In August several families of Immanuel will act as hosts to boys and girls from the central core area of Milwaukee under the Lutheran Rural Summer Vacation Program.

The aim of all these programs is that better understanding might develop through information and fact, replacing emotion.

"I never dreamed the process would take so long!" exclaims Sister M. Clarice, a Nazareth nun of the Sisters of St. Joseph, who is enrolled in a course at a Kalamazoo beauty school. "When I first came here, I had no idea of the time involved, especially in bleaching and tinting."

Sister Clarice says that it was difficult for her to enter a brand new field, but since Catholic nuns now expose their hair, it became necessary for a Sister of St. Joseph to learn hair care. "Wheneva a need arises in a community, sisters are trained in that particular field," Sister Clarice explains.

Your family will applaud that broiled fish if you serve it & one day opening a beauty shop for the sisters at Nazareth.

Attend the Church of Your Choice NEW TOMORROW

If I had time tonight, I might be a bit frightened. But just now, there's time to feel only excited and happy. It's funny... when you're a little kid, it seems as if you go to school forever. Then all of a sudden, it's graduation night, and you know that this is an end and a beginning all at once.

Mom and Dad will be out in the audience, and so will Dan. He sent me these roses. Our minister will be out there too, and I hope he'll notice that the smile I send in his direction will be a particularly grateful one. How often I've gone to him with my childish troubles, only to have him treat them as seriously as if they were of world-shaking consequence. It was he who really taught me how to pray.

He taught me so many of God's lessons. And I am sure that throughout my lifetime I'll be learning them anew and repeating them over and over again. How wonderful to realize that this commencement, this end of an era, is really the beginning of a new tomorrow.

State Parks Beckoning Visitors

Fayette Pushes Historic Charm

By CLINT DUNATHAN

Among Michigan's 72 state parks and recreation areas the emphasis is on preparedness for the 1968 season—and at historic Fayette State Park in Delta County, it's what old, not what's new that counts.

For instance, Park Manager Jim Kent mentions there will be new displays in the old Opera House museum; and the old machine shop and a former dwelling have additional exhibits relating to the history of the "ghost town" on the Garden Peninsula.

"The season is off to an early start this spring," said Kent. "There have been 14 or 15 campers in so far and attendance at the Park has been double the figure of a year ago."

There could be an "explosion of visitors," he added. If that happens Fayette will indeed be booming, for last year (eight years since the Park was established) had an attendance of 75,762.

Plan Entrance

Excavation work is continuing in the area of the old iron furnaces and by mid-June visitors will be able to move in nearer the site for a closer look at the "diggings." Fayette's picnic grounds and beach are also popular with vacationers.

New development at the old park includes continued work on the construction of the administration building, now about three-quarters completed, said Kent.

On the program for this year is the start of a new Park entrance road and the construction of additional parking area above the old town site.

One of the interpretive features is a model "pit charcoal" operation, demonstrating the process of clearing land, cutting the hardwood, building the mound to produce charcoal and the raking of the finished product.

Fees The Same

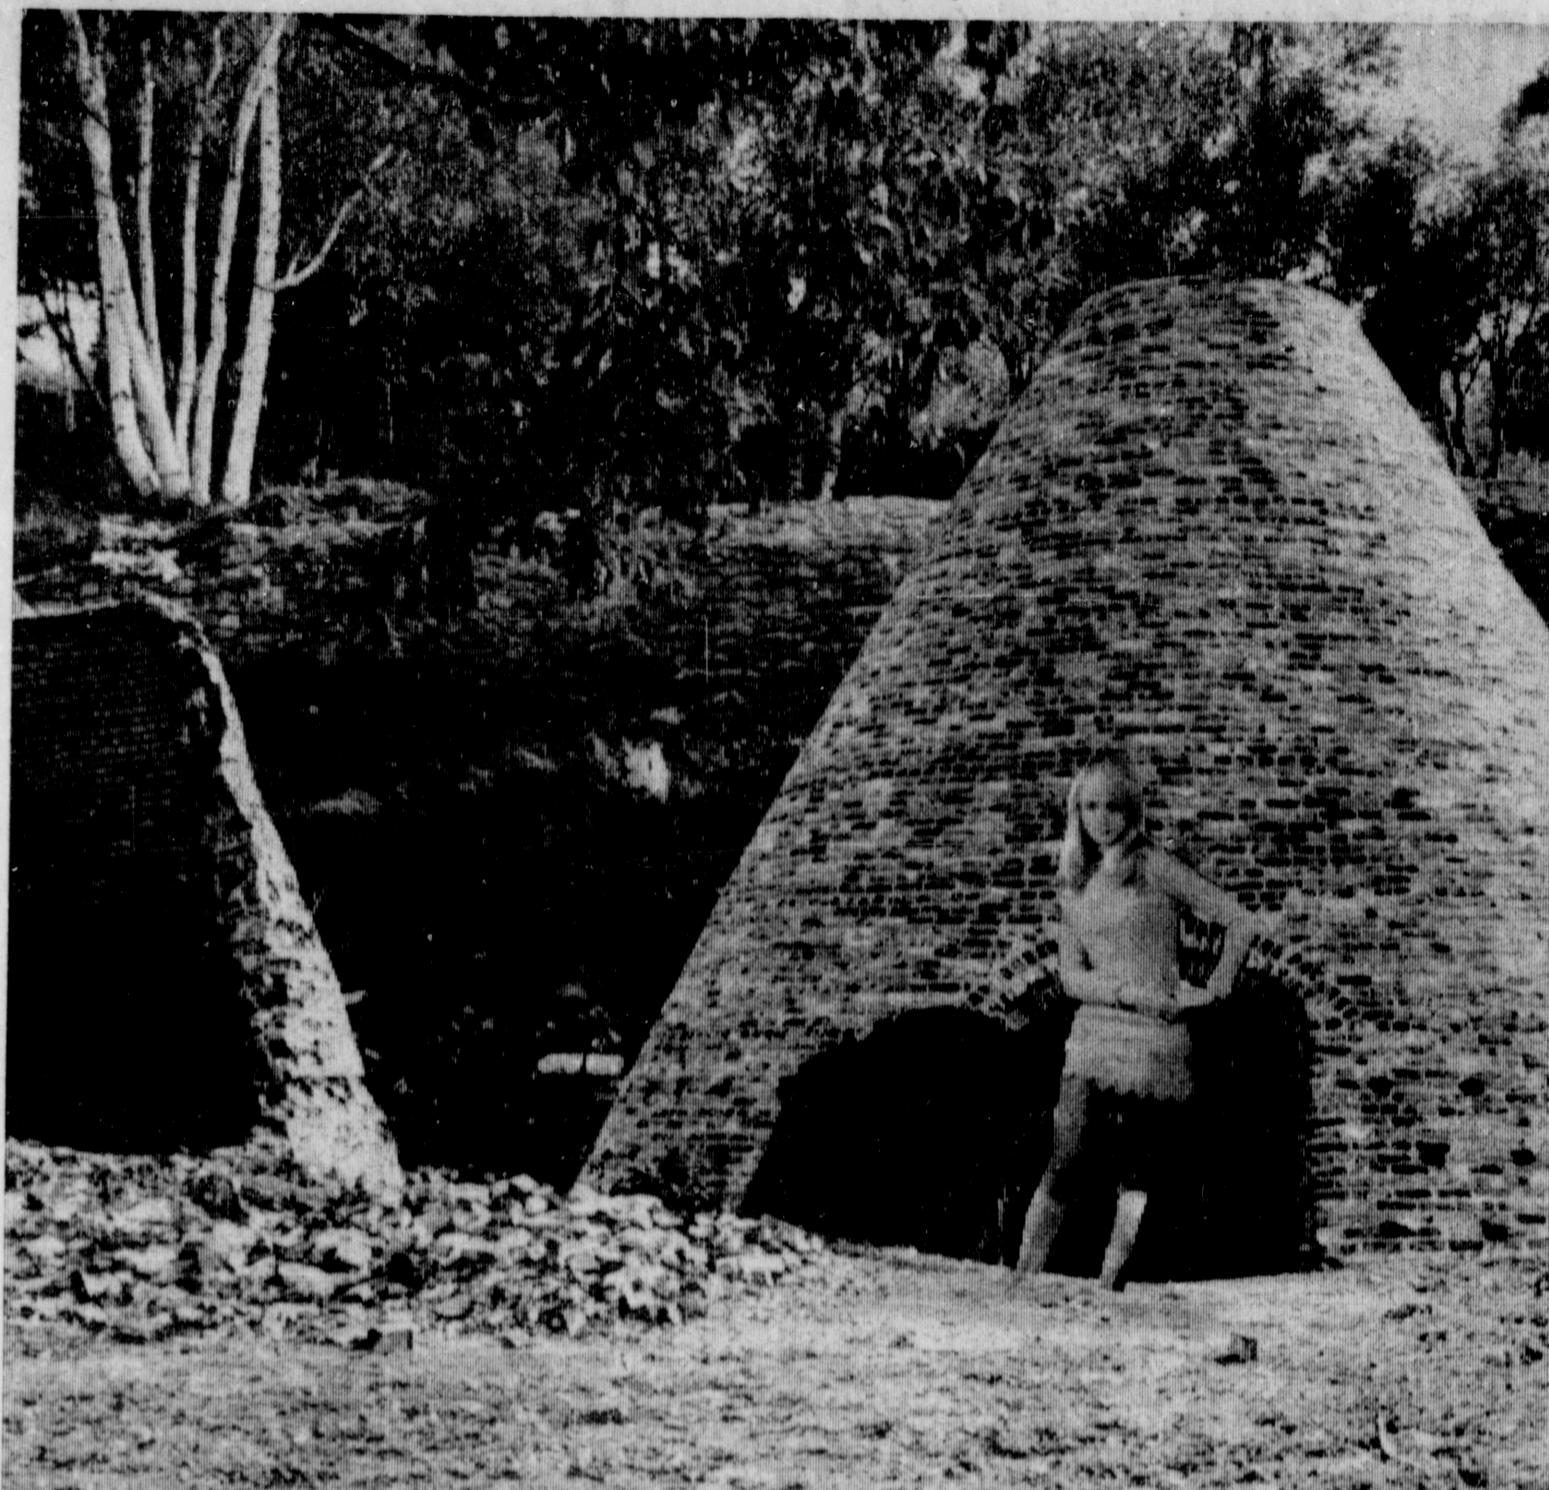

All in all, state parks and recreation areas in Michigan are set to accommodate more people than ever before.

By mid-May, state parks had attracted some 1,414,500 visitors. This is 14 per cent ahead of the 1967 pace when state parks hosted 15.5 million day users during the entire year.

Campers and other recreationists bound for state parks for the Memorial Day holiday will find more facilities to enjoy, but they won't have to pay any more to enter these areas and to camp there.

Annual state park vehicle entrance permits are again priced at $3 for residents and $5 for nonresidents. Daily permits cost residents $1 and non-residents $2. Daily camping fees continue to range between $1.50 and $2, depending on facilities provided.

In line with its broadening efforts to help people learn more about natural history and the outdoors, the Conservation Department has installed new interpretive displays at Fayette, Indian Lake, Palms Book, Muskalonge Lake, Tahquamenon Falls and others.

EXPLORING OLD FAYETTE includes a look at the century-old charcoal furnaces, where green hardwood was slowly heated and charred to fuel the iron ore smelters. The State Park has guided tours that detail the step-by-step process by which iron ore, charcoal and limestone were combined to produce molten metal that became pig iron in the early days of the industry.

Fishermen Ask Govt. Purchase Of Their Boats

Commercial fishermen of the Upper Peninsula asked that government buy their boat and fishing gear if they're to be put out of business by fishing regulations in a conference at the State Office Building Friday night with Congressman Philip E. Ruppe (R-Houghton.)

Ruppe told the fishermen that he would do what he could for them in federal legislation and aid. The problem affects state government, too, as it is state commercial fishing regulations that are restricting commercial fishing. Some of the members of the Michigan Conservation Commission have expressed favor for state indemnification of the losses being suffered when boats and fishing gear can no longer be used.

Changing Fishery

The problem of the commercial fisherman arises basically because of the decision of Michigan to transform its Great Lakes waters from their historic role as a commercial fishery into a sports fishery.

The plan, as explained by Dr. Howard Tanner when he headed the Fish Division of the Michigan Conservation Department, (he has since joined the faculty of Michigan State University) called for:

1. Rehabilitation of the Great Lakes fishery, which had deteriorated seriously, with great reduction of high quality fish and increases in low quality food fishes and trash fish like the alewife.

This rehabilitation would consist of control of fishery enemies like the lamprey eels and the planting of lake trout, coho salmon and other species to establish them as food fishes.

Accent On Sport

Ruppe was told that the new face of the industry has no place for the part-time commercial fishermen, who has been a fixture of Upper Peninsula employment for many years. Fishermen earning $2,000 to $4,000 a year in fishing as a sideline are going to be put out of business by the new "limited entry" method of licensing commercial fishermen to perform strictly limited fishing.

Jensen estimated that there are 300 licensed commercial fishermen in the Upper Peninsula, and that commercial fishing is economic support of 1,000 families. Some U.P. fishery operations employ as many as 22 persons.

Lamprey Control

Ruppe was told that the new face of the industry has no place for the part-time commercial fishermen, who has been a fixture of Upper Peninsula employment for many years. Fishermen earning $2,000 to $4,000 a year in fishing as a sideline are going to be put out of business by the new "limited entry" method of licensing commercial fishermen to perform strictly limited fishing.

Jensen said that limited entry commercial fishing is coming fast in Wisconsin as well as Michigan as the Great Lakes states change their fishery policies and cope with new conditions. The old method was to issue commercial fishing licenses without limit and let the fishermen try to make a living. The new state of the fishery and of modern fishing equipment make it impractical to permit unlimited licensing or unlimited fishing.

Ruppe also discussed with the fishermen the federal support of lamprey control in Lake Huron. The Federal Bureau of the Budget has cut $55,000 for this purpose from the budget of the Great Lakes Fisheries Commission. The new Upper Great Lakes Regional Com-

Epstein Breaks In With Bang

Combination Birthday

A birthday party honoring Miss Lisa Lawrence, three, and Miss Lynn Lawrence, four, was held at the home of their parents, Mr. and Mrs. David Lawrence recently. Guests included the Misses Ann and Jolene Cooper and Jim Bellefeuille of La Branche, and Patty Ann, Lee, and Michael Mihalic of Escanaba. Adults attending included their grandmother, Mrs. George Mihalic Sr. and aunts, Mrs. John Mihalic and Mrs. George Mihalic Jr., all of Escanaba. Also attending were Mr. and Mrs. James Barnes and Mrs. Robert Bellefeuille of La Branche.

Epstein had just one hit in three times at bat—he also hit a two-run double in the fifth inning that gave the Bisons a 6-5 victory over the Syracuse Chiefs.

Front-running Rochester and third-place Louisville had batting practice, the Red Wings mission, he said, has given $50,000 to this work in Huron and the State of Michigan is expected to provide $60,000 to $80,000 for the control program.

Unless the lampreys are controlled the lake trout planting program is imperiled.

Dodgers Defeat Houston In Extra-Inning Contest

By The Associated Press
Talk about two-out thunder. The lightning was flashing all over Houston's weather-proof AstroDome.

First the Astros wiped out a two-run Los Angeles lead with two out in the ninth inning Friday night. Then the Dodgers rushed five runs across with two out in the 10th inning, snapping the tie. And right back came Houston for three runs with two out in the bottom of the 10th.

Forgive Walter Alston, manager of the Dodgers, if he heaved a sigh of relief when John Purdin struck out Byron Browne, nailing down Los Angeles' 9-7 victory over the Astros.

In other National League games Friday, Atlanta stopped New York 4-2, Pittsburgh defeated Cincinnati 8-5, St. Louis downed Philadelphia 5-1 and San Francisco beat Chicago 4-2.

The last out AstroDome fun started with the Dodgers one putout away from a 4-2 regulation victory. Bob Aspromonte and Doug Rader singled, moved up on a wild pitch and raced home with the tying runs on Juilio Goatay's pinch single.

There were two out in the Dodger 10th when Wes Parker and Jim Fairey walked. Bob Bailey unloaded a three-run homer—his fourth hit of the game. Another walk and consecutive singles by Paul Popovich, Tom Haller and Jim Brewer brought in two more runs.

Now it was Houston's turn again. With two out in their half of the 10th, Rusty Staub, Lee Thomas and Jim Wynn singled for one run and Aspromonte doubled two more across. With the tying run at the plate, Alston brought in Purdin and the rookie struck out pinch hitter Browne. Sigh!

The Mets tried a little last-gasp excitement but it fell short against the Braves. Unbeaten Ron Reed, who won his sixth straight, was breezing on a three-hitter until the ninth and leading 4-0.

But a walk and single brought in Jim Britton and J.C. Martin's two run double made it 4-2. But Britton struck out the last two batters to preserve the victory.

Singles by Sonny Jackson and Hank Aaron, two walks, two stolen bases and a hit batsman helped Atlanta to a pair of first-inning runs against loser Nolan Ryan, 4-4.

Home runs by Curt Flood, Johnny Edwards and Dal Maxvill led St. Louis past Philadelphia. Flood and Edwards each connected with a man on while Maxvill's shot came with the bases empty.

Steve Carlton, touched for an unearned run in the first inning, pitched a three-hitter for the victory.

Willie Stargell keyed two Pittsburgh rallies as the Pirates built a seven-run lead and coasted past Cincinnati.

Stargell doubled in a two-run third inning and had a sacrifice fly as Pittsburgh scored three more runs in the fourth. Robert Clemente had a two-run homer for the Pirates.

Reliever Ron Kline got the victory after rescuing Steve Blass in the fifth and holding Cincinnati off the rest of the way.

Juan Marichal became the major leagues' first seven-game winner, pitching the Giants past the Cubs. Marichal allowed nine hits—seven of them in the Outdoor courts at the V & A Bar and the Duc Abbruzzi Italian Federation Lodge, plus a new indoor court on West Caspian Avenue will be groomed to handle the tournament which is expected to draw a large field of entries from the Upper Peninsula and neighboring states.

The tournament will be a two-team event with an entry fee of $4.00 per team required to be posted with each team entry. Applications of entry should be mailed to: Chairman, Bocce Tournament, Caspian, Michigan, 49915. Prize money of $100.00, $50.00, and $25.00, will be awarded to the top three teams.

Foster Captures Crown On 4th Round Knockout

NEW YORK (AP) — It cost Bob Foster and his backers about $21,000 to get the light heavyweight title from Dick Tiger. The gangling, newly crowned champion won't waste much time getting it back.

Floyd Patterson or George Chuvalo may be the next big target.

Shortly after the 29-year-old Foster bombed the 38-year-old Biafran with a thunderous left hook to the jaw for a knockout in 2:05 of the fourth round Friday night, his bankrollers started lining up non-title fights.

"Bob will fight in Albuquerque, N.M., where he was raised, in about three or four weeks against an opponent to be determined," said Vince McMahon, the Washington, D.C., promoter who guaranteed Tiger $100,000 for the title shot. "Then there will be other non-title fights for a while."

The big one would be either Patterson, the former Air Force boxing champion used his long left jabs to set up Tiger and keep him back for three rounds. In the fourth he peppered the aging vet with left jabs and then unleashed a right uppercut and the lethal left hook to the jaw in a flashing combination.

Tiger, never before knocked out in a 16-year career, went flat on his back. He was struggling to raise his torso when referee Mark Conn counted 10.

"I didn't even know I was down," said Tiger. "The first I remember is hearing the word 'ten.' It was too late then."

A crowd of 11,547 paid

$113,728. The net gate was about $107,000, with $25,000 more coming in for the ancillary rights, including television. Foster collected 60 per cent of this—about $79,200—and paid Tiger $100,000, going for a loss of $20,800.

Foster, a pro for eight years, scored his ninth straight victory for a 304 record, including 24 knockouts. Tiger's record is 58-14-3. He had been floored once by middleweight champion Emile Griffith but never stopped before.

Boston Outslugs Twins; Strange Stars In Relief

By The Associated Press
Carl Yastrzemski, the hit of Boston's 1967 pennant party, certainly remembered how to get around on a long-awaited home run, but a simple single left teammate Lee Stange be-fuddled.

Stange, a wallflower at the plate, grounded a run-scoring single up the middle for the decisive run in the seventh inning and then protected it with fine relief pitching as the Red Sox outslugged Minnesota 9-7 in a swinging affair Friday night.

"I actually didn't know what to do after I hit it," said the veteran right-hander of his first hit this season.

Elsewhere in the American League, George Brunet of California confounded the Cleveland Indians with a four-hitter for a 2-1 victory, the New York Yankees tripped the Chicago White Sox 1-0 in 13 innings, Baltimore staggered Washington twice 5-3 and 3-2 and Detroit and Oakland tied 2-2 in a seven-inning rain-shortened contest.

Yastrzemski got Boston into the swing of things with his fifth homer of the season and first since April 17. Although the temperature hovered near 50 degrees and a drizzle fell most of the time, Rico Petrocelli added a two-run shot in the third and Yaz singled home a run in the fourth for a 7-4 lead as the Sox got hot.

But it was 7-6 when Stange, who was 3-for-49 last year and 0-for-2 this season at the plate, took bat in hand in the seventh. Jose Tartabull followed with another run-scoring hit.

"I get hits so seldom," Stange said. "This one gave me an insurance run and it turned out I needed it."

Spartans Dump Hawkeyes, 5-2

IOWA CITY, Iowa (AP) — Michigan State took Iowa into an extra inning ball game Friday before dumping the Hawkeyes 5-2 in the first game of a scheduled doubleheader.

The second game was called because of darkness in the seventh inning with the score tied at 4-4.

The opener, scheduled for seven innings, stretched into nine before the Spartans exploded for three runs to wrap it up. Two of the winning markers came when Steve Rymal slammed a home run with one man on.

By the time the second game was called, each team had collected 10 hits, with MSU's Steve Garvey duplicating his efforts in the first game by belting a home run and a double.

Iowa led 3-0 going into the fifth, when Michigan State scored its first two runs. The Hawkeyes added another in the bottom of the inning.

Garvey led off the sixth with a homer and MSU tied the score on a hit and an Iowa error.

Peterson Nips Richer To Win Feature Race

Jim Peterson of Kingsford, driving a modified for only the third time in his racing career, captured the feature race last night as he nosed out 12-year racing veteran Jerry Richer by a half car length at the finish line. Richer spun out on the first lap and dropped back to last position but came back strong to challenge for the lead. Peterson held off the challenge to pick up his first win of the year with Richer second, and Ken Iverson third.

Herb Iverson had the lead halfway through the sportsman feature, but car trouble forced him to the sidelines. Jim Barron, who was holding down the second position, then drove his Mustang to victory. Duke Gardiner was second and Gordon Peterson third.

Temperatures were in the 30s at Norway, but the crowd quickly warmed up as Howie Johnson of Pembine rolled over in the first sportsman heat. Ron Paquette duplicated the feat in the third heat as he rolled over on the second lap. No one was injured.

The drivers return to action tonite in Escanaba with the time trial at 7 p.m. with the races at 8 p.m.

Gophers Named Track Winners

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Minnesota was informed late Friday that it has officially been declared the winner of last weekend's Big Ten track and field meet which was held in Memorial stadium here.

It was Minnesota's first Big Ten title since 1949, and only the Gophers' second cinder championship in history.

The Gophers won the meet with 50 points, while Michigan had 49 and Wisconsin 48.

Michigan had protested the results of the 220-yard dash finals, but the Big Ten Games Committee threw out the protest

Friday and declared the Gophers the 1968 outdoor track champions.

Track coaches Bob Wright of Illinois and Dave Rankin of Purdue, plus Big Ten Commissioner Bill Reed made up the Games Committee. Meet referee who concurred in the ruling was Leo Johnson, former Illinois track coach.

The Big Ten office in Chicago said, "The Games Committee and referee are in agreement with the finish judges that the runners were properly placed in the 220-yard dash, and Minnesota is the 1968 Big Ten outdoor track champion."

Hoholik Is Host For Class, Tour

MHS students of Joseph Giovannini's contemporary history class toured the paper mill Friday afternoon after a noon luncheon at the Surf as guests of Frank S. Hoholik, president of the Manistique Pulp & Paper Co.

Hoholik told the group that this country will progress regionally, based on a prediction of a famed Greek city planner, Constantine Doxiadis.

Doxiadis foresees on concentration of 60 per cent of the U.S. population in an area bounded by Chicago, Grand Rapids, Detroit, Cleveland, and Pittsburgh.

"Our Great Lakes area has the one commodity that can make this prediction come true: an abundance of fresh water," said Hoholik. "Of course, there is a difference of thought on the future. Some people feel that our area development should concentrate on the conservation of our natural resources and develop these for recreation.

"However, we need industry because we can't survive without the tax support industry gives."

"It is possible and probable that some of you will be living in the Upper Peninsula yet working in the industrial-concentrated areas to the south of us and able to commute to your jobs in 10 minutes or so."

Hoholik said he foresees a future of what he called "sophisticated industry" — data processing, computerized bookkeeping, etc., many of which techniques are already in use.

He said he felt our area would rebound from a distressed situation into a most desirable place to live and the desirability would stem from the non-congested status of the U.P.

In Memoriam

Juhl

In loving memory of our dear mother, Laverl Juhl who passed away 3 years ago, May 26, 1965. When child we see on mother's knee, fond memories wander back to me. And from them we recall of youth, that symbol of goodness, love and Our Mother.

Whose hands were those that we would hold When troubles we must need unfold.

Whose lips at night when, off to bed Would plant sweet kisses on our heads?

Our Mother.

And now a grave beneath a tree, bears her name and (Rest in Peace).

There we stand and bow our heads to pray for our beloved dead, Our Mother.

Life here is short and this we know, That soon or later, we all must go.

Then, in that haven of rest we'll meet.

That one so dear, so kind, so sweet. Our Mother.

Michigan is a real nice place to live and visit. It has many different kinds of animals among the beautiful scenery. There are great belts of hard and soft wood reaching over most of the land.

The wild life of Michigan includes the animals, fish and birds that live in the streams and forest of Michigan. There were many different kinds of animals in Michigan. Among them were the fox, beaver, mink, muskrat, squirrel, deer, bear, and rabbits. Many of these animals have been hunted or killed so not many of them are left.

There are many lakes, both large and small, all over Michigan. These lakes have many fish in them. In these lakes Indians fished, and caught many fish for food, but they did not catch more food than they needed. Now along the shores of these streams and lakes are many cottages where people spend a few weeks or days in the summer.

The lakes are home for the fish. When the white man came to Michigan, he caught more fish than he needed so the stock of fish became much less than it was once. The same is true of the wild animal life. The Indians called Michigan "The Land of Great Waters."

The laws of Michigan now protect its wild life, and each person is allowed to kill only a certain number of wild animals and to catch only a certain number of fish. Both hunters and fishermen are required now to get a license before they may either hunt or fish. The state has many fish hatcheries where little fish or minnows are hatched from eggs. They are then planted in lakes and streams.

Several years ago Michigan was making more lumber than any other state in our country. Many of our trees were huge in size. Her forests were great. The trees could grow so large, because there was so much water in the great lakes and more than six thousand smaller lakes in Michigan. It was a sort of haven for the wild beast and Indians. White pine made most of the money for the lumbermen and they thought little of hard wood until many years later. Pine logs were cut easily and could be floated on water. They looked well in buildings, too. Within the past hundred years twenty-five million acres of timber was cut in Michigan. This made one hundred sixty billion feet of lumber, enough boards to reach more than a thousand times around the whole world. This lumber was worth three billion dollars, or ten times as much as the gold mined in Alaska. Almost two-thirds of the land in Michigan was covered by forest when white men came. We are now planting trees in great numbers. Millions of trees have been planted in recent years.

Michigan is trying to restore the wild life and forest industry by having laws that forbid people to use more of nature than they need. By doing this someday we may have as many natural resources as we once did.

Resource Use

Since the discovery of the Great Lakes, these vast bodies of fresh water have served Michigan and the nation well. Without doubt they will continue to benefit the public and industry of Michigan in years to come. However, it would require more than a careful guess to say what the Great Lakes will mean to Michigan and the nation in the next 50 or 100 years.

Perhaps water transportation will be replaced with nuclear powered crafts, or on the other hand, become more vital than it is today. The 21st Century may see one of man's greatest discoveries, the conversion of sea water to fresh water. If this is accomplished, the great value of the lakes as a fresh water supply reservoir may be diminished. If it is not, then the welfare of the entire United States may depend entirely upon the Great Lakes.

Apart from these speculations certain figures of the "Big Lakes" will remain as long as the lakes are there. They will continue to affect the local climate, they will provide an unlimited supply of water to industry, and with continued care they will be Michigan's greatest recreational attraction.

But, all of this will begin to lessen until nothing unless we take grave action against a growing and serious problem, pollution. Pollution can be prevented only if we, the citizens of Michigan take immediate action. Some of our most beautiful and scenic streams and lakes are being contaminated by waste materials from factories and sewage plants. Our only chance of overcoming this unhealthy problem is to get to the source. As residents of this great state we should be concerned and do our utmost to help prevent further pollution of Michigan's natural beauty.

We must do more than talk and wonder what to do, we must act. To stand up and take action against this problem is what all Michigan citizens should be proud to do. If we want to see our rivers and lakes remain clean and running free with fresh fish, it is up to us, the Michigan people.

Michigan lakes have always been a major point for outdoor activities. People seek water in which to swim, fish, hunt, boat, and water ski. They seek water beside which to camp, hike, drive, and picnic. The Great Lakes Region has always fulfilled its demands of water recreation and will do so for 100's of years to come, only, if Michigan water pollution is overcome.

The really beautiful features of the lakes cannot be described but have to be experienced. The magnificence of a Lake Michigan sunset, the peaceful sailboat upon a Michigan lake, and the feeling of God's nature all about you when watching migrating birds fly southward, are all but a small part of the Great Lakes heritage which belongs to all Michigan citizens. So stand up, Michiganers, and when you do you will be proud to say, "If you seek a pleasant peninsula look about you."

ESSAY FINALISTS for Michigan Week

Here are the finalists in the Essay Contest conducted by the local Optimists' Club, hosts for "Youth Day" in Michigan. All youths of the 7th and 8th grades of the Delta County schools were invited to enter the contest. A final winner will be chosen during "Youth Day" ceremonies at Ludington Park, Saturday, May 25th. A $50.00 Savings Bond will be awarded to the winner of the best essay.

Discovery Of Iron Ore In Michigan

The story of the discovery of iron ore in Michigan is quite familiar to me. Until our family moved to Escanaba, we lived in Negaunee, Michigan, just a five minute walk away from the very spot where iron ore was discovered.

In 1884 a surveyor named William A. Burt took a party of eight men and two Indians into a district around Marquette. On September 19, of that year he set up his magnetic compass on the hill where the city of Negaunee now stands. When he leveled the compass up to set his course and take a sight, the needle began to flutter and whirl crazily around in the box. He looked around impatiently to see which of his axmen had gotten too close to his compass, for the needle always jumped when one of them got to close to watch the instrument operate.

But this time the needle wasn't disturbed because of an ax getting too close. It had gone completely wild and was twirling irregularly through the angle of the compass, at an 87 degree variation. To cause that much deflection, you would have had to have held an axe directly over the needle and move it back and forth.

Burt told his men to look for iron. They kicked up leaves and dirt, poked under trees and bushes, and hunted around among the loose earth and rock. They found huge chunks of almost pure iron ore along a place where the earth had eroded. They were standing on a mountain of iron but they did not know it.

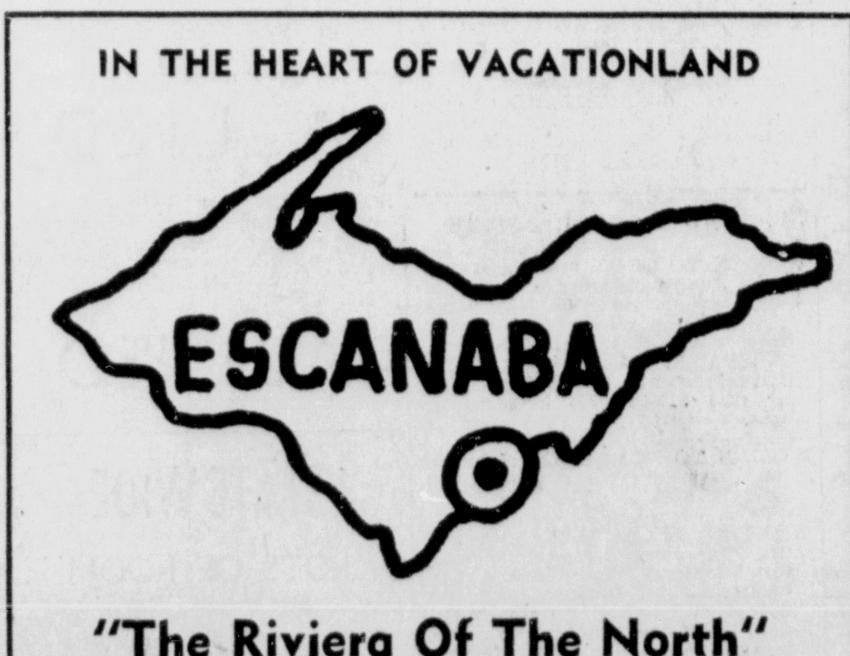

Burt took more joy in his great discovery of the new solar compass than he did in his discovery of an iron mountain. The season was growing short, and already the cold winds were blowing over the range. Winter was approaching and they were far from home (which was the Houghton, or Copper Country.) When Burt started his expedition, he had no intention of looking for iron, he was running section lines. When the party got to the Sault, they told of what they found, and the word got around to a man named Philo M. Everett of Jackson, Michigan. He was prowling around up there hunting for copper, when he picked up the spreading rumor of iron ore back of Marquette.

The following spring, Everett persuaded a superstitious Chippewa Indian to guide him through the wilderness hills to a spot near Negaunee, where according to Indian legend, lay such quantities of ore that it was guarded by spirits. The guide led Everett to the edge of the sacred mound, but no further. Then Everett went forward to the pits and outcroppings of the eerie, the polychrome hill that became Jackson Mountain.

Acres by acre, the land was explored and mines were opened and workmen were brought in.

The discovery of iron ore has brought wealth as well as industry to the Upper Peninsula of Michigan. And although it doesn't sparkle like jewels, it is truly a great, buried treasure.

Michigan Fishing

Fishing in Michigan is very popular and is still growing in industry and sport. Fishing in Michigan waters has been going on since the first Indians lived here. All along the coastline of Lakes Michigan, Superior, and Huron, there are fishing ports for the commercial fishing industry and also harbors for other boats used by their owners for fishing and other things.

Years ago there were plenty of fish throughout the Great Lakes and small inland lakes. In some lakes there still are, but in other lakes fish have died off from many different causes. About the year 1962 the St. Lawrence Seaway opened up for the use of the Great Lakes. When it opened, the lamprey eel came swarming through the Great Lakes like wildfire. They killed off many fish of different species. Every year they were getting thicker and thicker. Conservationists were working on something to kill them and finally they did it. They made a poison that only affected the lamprey. Soon the trouble was almost over when another sea fish invaded the lakes. The alewife came and did just as much, if not more, damage to fish and people than did the lamprey. They cluttered up beaches and shores of scenic cottages. The conservationists were back in the lab working on something to kill the alewife. Again they found something to do the job. From the far west they brought the Coho salmon. With it there were some chinook and king salmon. They did the job and things started coming back to normal. Along with these big game fish there still are the others that lasted in the lakes: the northern pike, musky, bass and perch. Almost all these fish can be caught on line with reel and rod. Some fishermen prefer other ways of fishing. They can use their spears and handnets for the runs of fish in the early spring.

As soon as the weather warms up the smelt runs begin in many rivers and creeks. When that is over, the suckers start to come up the rivers, and soon after that the carp come into the shallow areas.

During the winter months, when the ice is thick enough, fish shanties are moved on the ice for ice fishing. Many perch and walleye are caught during that time.

It is always fun catching fish and eating them but on the other hand there is also a dirty part about it, which not too many people like, and that is cleaning them. Although it is not very hard, it is sometimes very messy. However, the delicious taste of fresh fish more than makes up for any work involved in preparation.

Most Beautiful State And It's History

The most beautiful state in my opinion is Michigan. Not many people know about Michigan's history, but anyone who has done any research on Michigan knows it had an exciting history. Since I do know some of Michigan's history I will relate what I know about Michigan for the advantage of those who do not know about Michigan's history.

The first period in Michigan's history was the French Period. During this special period Etienne Brule came to Michigan. Etienne Brule was the first white man to come to Michigan. He came in 1810. Etienne Brule may have been the first white man to Michigan, but he made no attempt to settle Michigan. It was Father Marquette who started the first settlement in Michigan. This settlement was made in Soo Ste. Marie. He also started a mission in St. Ignace. Then in 1701 Antoine Cadillac built Fort Pontchartrain. The fort is now referred to as Fort Detroit. Not long after Antoine Cadillac came the French and Indian War started. The final battle of the French and Indian War was fought in Quebec. The war was won by the British.

The English or British Period of Michigan's history started in about 1763. Soon after the war was won by the British a man by the name of Major Bob Rogers had to go to all the French forts and report that the war was over and the British had won. Major Rogers did not wish to take any unnecessary chances so to make his trip through Indian territory safer he made many promises to the Indians. The promises Rogers made were never kept. This angered a great Indian chief named Pontiac. Pontiac developed a plan to try to drive the British from the Great Lakes region. To accomplish this plan Pontiac had to do many unindianlike things such as uniting all the Indians. In trying to get the British out of the Great Lakes region the garrison of Fort Mackinaw was killed and Fort Detroit suffered a long siege. The only reasons Pontiac gave up the siege of Fort Detroit were because there was now no more French aid and winter was coming. Not long after the American Revolution started, Major Hamilton was the chief leader of the forces in the Detroit area during the revolution. He was still leader when the war ended. His job during the Indian war was to buy American scalps from the Indians. General Clark was sent to find and capture Hamilton. Hamilton abandoned Fort Detroit and built the fort on Mackinaw Island to get away from Clark. The Revolutionary war ended before Major Hamilton or Fort Mackinac could be captured. The war was won by the Americans.

Soon after the war was won Michigan became part of the Northwestern Territory. Michigan remained part of the Northwestern Territory until 1802 when it was annexed to the Indiana Territory. Then on January 11, 1803 Michigan was set aside as a separate territory. Finally Michigan attained statehood. Michigan became a state on January 26, 1837. Michigan was the 26th State. From here Michigan advanced little by little until Michigan came to its present status.
